From: <https://livingwellmom.com/2016/01/easy-gluten-free-playdough/>

4 cups baking soda
2 cups corn starch
3 cups water
food coloring

Add the baking soda and corn starch to a 2-quart saucepan and mix together with a spoon. Kids can help with this part.

Turn the heat to medium, then add the water.

Add a few drops of food color.

Stir well to break up any lumps. Don't worry about it too much though; you'll get it all mixed together eventually.

Cook and whisk constantly until the playdough starts to become a little more solid. This should take less than 5 minutes.

Usually subsequent batches come together much quicker because the pan and burner are already warm.

It should come together quickly after that. Continue whisking.

Once the playdough starts to ball, remove the saucepan from the heat and stir until it's all pretty much clumped together.

Remove the gluten-free playdough onto a solid surface. It will still look a little lumpy and unfinished; that's okay.

Let it cool for a minute, then knead together. You'll see the imperfections quickly smooth out and it will suddenly look like a beautiful ball of playdough.
